

1. Cut out pattern at the circles edge. 2. Fold paper at lines in order indicated. 3. Cut out all grey areas. Use an X-acto knife for inner details.

AN ERLENMEYER FLASK

One of the most common pieces of equipment is the Erlenmeyer flask. Its unique design makes the flask particularly helpful for experiments that involve the boiling of liquids and allow for relatively easy use of stoppers and covers.

© The Franklin Institute 2017

www.fi.edu